BRAINSTORM! DESIGNING A CITY

When the Amoskeag Company began to grow, the company hired a young man named Ezekiel Straw, who was just 18 years old at the time, to figure out what the new city of Manchester should look like.

Imagine you have been given this task and brainstorm some ideas on what you think should be in the city. Where will people live? What kinds of stores should there be? What kinds of buildings are located in cities? Draw more lines if you need.
