DRAW YOUR OWN COMIC: NH TOWN MEETING DAY

New Hampshire has a long tradition of strong local government. At least once a year, every town holds a town meeting, when all of the town's voters come together to discuss the issues they will be voting on.

Imagine you are attending a town meeting and draw a comic strip about what you experience. Who do you see at the town meeting? Do you sit with your friends or your family? What topics are being discussed? How are the townspeople participating? Are people acting frustrated about the topics, or are they listening patiently?
