DRAW YOUR OWN COMIC: COLLECTING MAPLE SYRUP

In early spring, the Abenaki would drain sap from the many maple trees in New Hampshire and make maple syrup. The process they used is the same way that sap is collected and turned into maple syrup today!

Follow the steps written in each comic strip box and draw what each step looks like.

1. Find a maple tree!

2. Put a wooden tap into the trunk of the maple tree. Then, place a bucket underneath the tap to collect the sap.

NAME: _____

3. It's now springtime! The sap has begun to flow out of the tap into the bucket.

4. Take the sap back home and boil it for a long time over a large fire.

5. The maple syrup is now ready to eat!

Draw something you enjoy eating that uses maple syrup.
