

Name

Perspectives on Manchester Riot

After reading the content about the 1854 Manchester riot, fill in the table below to explore the different perspectives.

Questions	Recent Irish Immigrants	Established townspeople	John H. Maynard and the police
What did they do?
What do you think they were feeling and thinking?
What would you do in this situation?

Ref	flec	tion
1	,

Pretend you are a concerned citizen in Manchester and want the tension between the groups to go away.

- What could the recent Irish immigrants and the established townspeople do to have a better relationship in the future?
- How can they understand each other's perspectives better?

Now think about your own life. Describe a time where you at first only understood your own perspective but then later came to understand someone else's perspective too.

- How were your perspectives different?
- How did you learn about their perspective?

Name	Answer Key	V

Perspectives on Manchester Riot

After reading the content about the 1854 Manchester riot, fill in the table below to explore the different perspectives.

Questions	Recent Irish Immigrants	Established townspeople	John H. Maynard and the police
What did they do?	Many Irish immigrants had moved to Manchester. They established their own Catholic Christian churches, which were different from the Protestant Christian churches already established in Manchester.	In the summer of 1854, a group of Manchester residents attacked an Irish Catholic church. They threw stones and broke windows.	John H. Maynard lived near the church and raced to the scene. He convinced the rioters to stop destroying the building. The police arrived and prevented further violence.
What do you think they were feeling and thinking?	Possible responses include: feeling fear that they would be harmed for being different in some ways from people who had been established in New Hampshire for a longer time, thinking that they would have to move away, or worrying they would lose their jobs.	Possible responses include: feeling anger that so many people from another place had moved into Manchester, feeling fear that their way of life would be pushed aside by new traditions, or thinking that the new residents would take jobs or housing away from established residents.	Possible responses include: Maynard cared about his neighborhood and wanted it to be safe for everyone who lived in it, the police had a duty to protect all citizens, or that both Maynard and the police wanted to ensure that no one was hurt.
What would you do in this situation?	Answers will vary.	Answers will vary.	Answers will vary.

Reflection
Pretend you are a concerned citizen in Manchester and want the tension between the groups to go away. • What could the recent Irish immigrants and the established townspeople do to have a better relationship in the futur • How can they understand each other's perspectives better?	·e?
Answers will vary.
Now think about your own life. Describe a time where you at first only understood your own perspective but then later cam to understand someone else's perspective too. How were your perspectives different? How did you learn about their perspective?
Answers will vary.

Lesson 12.5: Perspectives on Immigration

I am afraid that she will be lovesome in Emfield Don't let her stay unless she wants to. I will write her as soon as I can gam will miss her from home My health is good. The 4th passed off here by a celebration in a grove of the ectizens - mat a very extensive affair. An Rish riot occurred early in the mornmy, - three or four Americans were seriously burt - the Trish consumered the rist but the American rulled brooke in the windows and cleared the houses of 15 Trickmen. Then the Americans at

Transcript of letter, page 2

I am afraid that she will be lonesome in Enfield. Don't let her stay unless she wants to. I will write her as soon as I can. You will miss her from home. My health is good. The 4th passed off here by a celebration in a grove of the citizens—not a very extensive affair. An Irish riot occurred early in the morning.—Three or four Americans were seriously hurt—the Irish commenced the riot but the Americans rallied, brooke in the windows and cleared the houses of 15 Irishmen. Then the Americans at-

Lesson 12.5: Perspectives on Immigration

traked the Catholic church and hake in the window and done other damage. The city authorities are busy in making arrests now but one thing is certain and that is that the Trish catholics can't quite not raise their black fing, with the Pape standing one footon washington's need. I will write again soon and I hope you will do the same. I went to hear from your after. I will The editor is now absent and I'am here alone de. cept my best wishes of Geo, W. Sturtevant Eag

Transcript of letter, page 3

tacked the Catholic church, and broke in the window, and done other damage. The city authorities are busy in making arrests now, but one thing is certain, and that is: that the Irish catholics can't quite yet raise their black flag, with the Pope standing one foot on Washington's neck. I will write again soon, and I hope you will do the same. I want to hear from you often. I will go home as soon as I can. The editor is now absent and I am here alone. Accept my best wishes for each and all of you, and write soon Respectfully &c E E Sturtevant

Geo. W. Sturtevant Esq and Family

Letter from E. E. Sturtevant to George W. Sturtevant, July 9, 1854, page 3 Source: New Hampshire Historical Society